The House of Sweden

The House of Sweden is a hidden gem in Georgetown, Washington DC which appears to be preparing to sail the great Potomac. Home to the Swedish Embassy offices for Swedish-American liaisons, upscale corporate apartments and offices, the structure is regal and stable - thrusting its sleek and organic geometry out towards the Georgetown Harbour. It is no surprise the architects chose a location out of the typical hustle and bustle of the capital's city-centre. The wholesome riverfront environment speaks to the architecture's unassuming grace.

Mercado Negro

LA-based cross-media visual designer Ramón Coronado has built a swing, lounge chair, table and a lamp out of shopping carts: Mercado Negro meaning Black Market in Spanish is a 12 week project that deals with reclaiming an ordinary, everyday object and transforming it into a whole new object. At the same time hinting at the lack of parks and recreational functions in Los Angeles. ...
